Welcome to the first issue of Global Strength, Local Impact, a quarterly update that highlights the ways that JPMorgan Chase is using its scale, resources and expertise to make a positive impact in the communities where we live and work.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM SECOND QUARTER 2013

JPMorgan Chase Releases 2012 Corporate Responsibility Report
Check out our annual report, which details our global strength and local impact. The report is available online in addition to a printer-friendly summary.

New Report Finds J.P. Morgan Impacted Over 80,000 Lives in Europe, Middle East and Africa Through its Philanthropic Investments
New Philanthropy Capital (NPC) reviewed J.P. Morgan's philanthropic grants and concluded our 2011-2012 funding touched the lives of over 80,000 people in 23 countries. Nearly all of the projects we supported have continued to impact communities beyond the completion of our grant.

Helping Tornado Victims in Oklahoma Recover and Rebuild
Chase deployed food trucks to Moore, OK and served over 1,000 free meals, providing encouragement to responders, volunteers and residents. We also donated $500,000 to relief agencies, organized our employees to volunteer and enabled customers to donate to the American Red Cross at 14,000 Chase ATMs across the U.S.

Chase is Awarded $70 Million in New Markets Tax Credits
Chase received $70 million in the latest round of New Markets Tax Credits to further expand our work supporting jobs and services in low-income communities across the U.S.

Over 12,000 Runners are Boston Strong in First Big Race After Marathon
The J.P. Morgan Corporate Challenge brought more than 12,000 runners together and donated the entry fees – totaling more than $500,000 – to The One Fund Boston, formed to assist victims and families of the Marathon attacks.

THE GLOBAL CITIES INITIATIVE
A joint project of Brookings and JPMorgan Chase

The Ten Traits of Globally Fluent Metro Areas
New research supported by the Global Cities Initiative identifies key traits of globally fluent metro areas and their critical relationship to the competitiveness, productivity and prosperity of cities and regions in the 21st century. More than 40 cities from the U.S. and around the world are featured as case studies in the report.

The Global Cities Initiative brought business, community and government leaders together in four cities this quarter to discuss strategies for economic growth:

Houston. As the fourth-largest exporter in the U.S., the Houston region boasts a booming energy sector but faces the common challenge of a regional skills gap.

Dallas. At the GCI panel discussion at the Dallas Regional Chamber’s 2013 Economic Series luncheon, business, civic and government leaders discussed the benefits of the Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport, its position as a logistics hub and the area's strong workforce.

Beijing. To examine the prospects and challenges of China's ongoing urbanization that has accompanied its economic boom, the Global Cities Initiative partnered with the Brookings-Tsinghua Center for Public Policy to bring leaders together at the recent 2013 J.P. Morgan China Summit in Beijing.

Denver. Despite its inland location and hardships just a quarter century ago, the Denver region has emerged as a "competitive middleweight" among global cities thanks to its uniquely collaborative regional leadership.
